CENSUS 2020

Virginia Hedrick, MPH (Yurok/Karuk)
Incoming Executive Director

The California Consortium for Urban Indian Health (CCUIH) is an alliance of ten (10) Urban Indian Health Organizations that supports health promotion and access for American Indians living in cities throughout California.

CCUIH’s mission is to facilitate shared development resources for our members and to raise public awareness in order to support a health and wellness network that meets the needs of American Indians living in urban communities.

LEARN MORE AT WWW.CCUIH.ORG
OUR MEMBERS

American Indian Health and Services
Santa Barbara, CA

Bakersfield American Indian Health Project
Bakersfield, CA

Fresno American Indian Health Project
Fresno, CA

Friendship House
San Francisco, CA

Indian Health Center of Santa Clara Valley
San Jose, CA

Native American Health Center
Oakland, San Francisco, Richmond, CA

Native Direction’s Inc.
Manteca, CA

Sacramento Native American Health Center
Sacramento, CA

San Diego American Indian Health Center
San Diego, CA

United American Indian Involvement
Los Angeles, CA

CCUIH PROJECTS

Each Mind Matters
California’s Mental Health Movement

Each Mind Matters reduces stigma and discrimination against people seeking mental health services and promoting wellness and resiliency in our California Urban Indian communities.

Red Women Rising supports culturally responsive domestic violence services for Urban Indians by increasing public awareness and enhancing collaborations between Urban Indian Health Programs, domestic violence service providers and traditional healers.

S.P.A.C.E
STRENGTHENING PATIENT ACCESS AND COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT

Urban Indian Space Project supports Urban Indian Health Programs in the implementation of enhanced patient engagement practices, strengthening patient-provider relations, and improving the health of their Urban Indian community.

CCUIH members will be reaching out to clinics to assess current patient engagement practices and develop tailored T/I/A and resources.

GRASP

CCUIH’s Getting Real About Stigma Prevention for the Hepatitis C Virus (GRASP-HCV) is a community-driven, statewide public awareness campaign to reduce stigma associated with HCV in Urban Indian communities throughout California. The GRASP-HCV campaign will work to combat stigma by promoting awareness, prevention, and harm reduction.

The broader goal of the GRASP-HCV campaign is to reduce the stark health disparities of those Urban Indian individuals struggling with HCV and those in the community that are at the highest risk for developing the disease. Through our community-driven campaign, we will address the stigmas associated with HCV through visual media, talking circles, and other means through which we hope to engage your respective clinics and communities.

Traditions of Health aims to improve the integration of behavioral health and primary care for Urban Indians by advancing the cultural revitalization efforts of Urban Indian Health Programs in California.
California has one of the largest populations of American Indians in the United States and is home to 723,225 American Indians of sole and mixed race (2010 U.S. Census).

There are 110 federally recognized tribes in California, with an additional 75 petitioning for federal recognition.

Nearly 90% of the American Indian population in California resides in urban areas (2010 U.S. Census).

The migration of American Indians into cities is due in large part to the federal relocation policies that began in the 1950s.

One in seven American Indians in the United States lives in California – and one in nine American Indians lives in a California City!
“URBAN IS NOT A KIND OF INDIAN, IT IS AN EXPERIENCE.”

• Original residents: Native people who traditionally owned the land on which the urban center is based.
• Forced residents: Those forced to relocate to urban centers by government policy or the need to access specialized health or other services.
• Permanent residents: Those who have permanently relocated from other areas in search of different or better opportunities.
• Medium and short term visitors: Those who may visit for special purposes but do not intend to stay permanently (as in visits to family, relocation to pursue higher education, etc.)

National Urban Indian Family Coalition, 2011
THANK YOU!

Virginia Hedrick
virginia@ccuih.org